With veristic overtones, the story was inspired by the real life of the legendary actress Adrienne Lecouvreur, and confronts the protagonist's passion with the Princess of Bouillon's jealousy, as they are both in love with the young Maurizio. An opera for voices to shine, where Maria Agresta plays the leading role, a role of diva par excellence, together with Silvia Tro Santafé and Jorge de León, who complete the love triangle, and Carlos Álvarez in the role of Machonnet. Donizetti's historic duel of queens, Maria Stuarda, returns in February for the third time at ABAO Bilbao Opera. This vibrant work of the Queen Trilogy by the composer from Bergamo, whose pages include magnificent musical and theatrical moments, provides an extraordinary opportunity to enjoy an exceptional title.

A lyrical tragedy that delves in the dramatic historic rivalry between two queens: Mary Stuart, catholic and Queen of Scotland, and Elisabeth I, protestant and Queen of England. One is in prison by order of the other. A man between them balances loyalty and love. A cry of "Wretched bastard!" is the passionate insult that takes Mary to the gallows, accused of treason.

As it is an ideal opera for great voices to shine, it attracts singers of renown in this type of repertoire, such as the soprano Yolanda Auyanet, National Music Award 2024 for Best Performer, who plays the long-suffering Maria Stuarda, one of the most complex characters of Donizetti's universe, with vocal demands that only a few singers can meet. The mezzo Maria Barakova brings the relentless Elisabetta to life, and the tenor Filip Filipović plays the infatuated Leicester. The three of them make their debut in the ABAO seasons.

The Mexican conductor Iván López-Reynoso is in charge of the music direction, conducting the Euskadiko Orkestra in a score with a really colourful and complex orchestration.

The co-production of ABAO Bilbao Opera and Opera de Oviedo, by Emilio López, who makes his debut in Bilbao, is an international premiere. The director surprises with a beautifully-made proposal where classical and modern elements are skilfully combined, accompanied by an elegant wardrobe and stunning light effects.

This drama with a historical setting delves into social issues and covers topics such as hatred, violence, the civil war, resentment, class struggle, love and romance within the framework of the French Revolution, with the creative interpretation of life and death of the poet André Chénier.

For this title, full of vibrant, touching and fluent melodies, ABAO has gathered a first-rate cast led by the American tenor Michael Fabiano, who returns to Bilbao to play the leading role. With him, the remarkable soprano Saioa Hernández, who makes her debut in ABAO as Maddalena di Coigny. The leading trio is completed by a dramatic baritone, Juan Jesús Rodríguez, who plays Carlo Gérard.
